

NETWORK WITH LEADERS IN BUSINESS & GOVERNMENT

... at NJBIA's Meetings and High-Profile Events

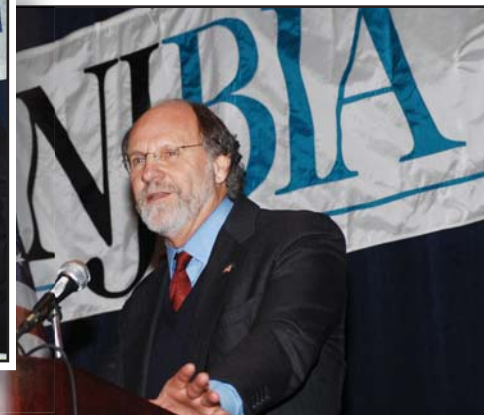

One of the great benefits of NJBIA membership is the ability to make valuable connections for your company with industry peers and with leaders in business and State government.

From its monthly policy committee meetings to its annual high-visibility events, NJBIA attracts the kind of leaders and knowledgeable insiders who are on the front lines of emerging business trends and State-government policies.

At NJBIA's regular policy committee meetings, members meet to discuss the latest developments in State policies affecting health insurance costs, taxation, environmental regulation, energy, workplace safety, human resource management and other issues.

At the monthly Employer Legislative Committee (ELC) meetings, held in 18 New Jersey counties, local business people meet with their State legislators and other public officials over breakfast or lunch to discuss current issues.

Every two years, the combined ELCs host a special event for gubernatorial and legislative candidates. Six hundred business people attended the June 2005 ELC Dinner featuring gubernatorial candidates Jon NJBIA's two biggest events, the ELC Dinner and the Public Policy Forum, attracted hundreds of Association members. Seen here are gubernatorial candidate Doug Forrester (top left), greeting an NJBIA member, Governor Jon Corzine addressing the Forum, and the Governor speaking with J. Michael Schweder, president of AT&T New Jersey and an NJBIA trustee.

At NJBIA's annual decision-maker breakfasts, members can meet with the State's top legislative leaders and the Governor's top advisors and cabinet officials. Featured guests in 2006 included the Chief of Staff, Economic Growth, Environmental Commissioner and Treasurer for the Administration of Governor Corzine.

NJBIA's biggest policy event of the year is its annual Public Policy Forum. In December 2005, the Forum featured outgoing Governor Richard Codey and incoming Governor Jon Corzine, as well as the State's top legislative leaders, including Assembly Speaker Joe Roberts.

“You must have the magic touch. Our accountant has been in touch with the NJ Division of Taxation, which is now very cooperative. We cannot thank you enough for your help.”
